

Get Organized: Protect Social Security!

Students for Social Security is a non-partisan, non-profit organization working to inform students about the evidence-based effects of privatization on young people, their families, and the economy in which they will soon be entering the workforce. Students for Social Security pledge our commitment to the present Social Security system as an intergenerational social insurance program for all Americans, and the most successful anti-poverty program in the history of the United States.

Website: www.StudentsForSocialSecurity.org

Email: admin@StudentsForSocialSecurity.org

Concerned Scientists in Aging is a non-partisan non-profit group of scholars who are working to: (1) advance evidence based knowledge concerning Social Security and the implications of the campaigns and policy proposals that challenge the existing system; and (2) disseminate information in the public interest concerning retirement security for all Americans including the effects of privatization on the younger disabled, survivors, women, minorities, and all American wage earners and families.

Concerned Scientists in Aging is comprised of more than 200 academics throughout the United States gearing up to fight the privatization of Social Security.

Website: www.ConcernedScientistsInAging.org

Email: ConcernedScientistsInAging@hotmail.com

Students for Social Security and Concerned Scientists in Aging are:

- creating and sharing fact sheets and Powerpoint presentations,
- organizing students and academics on multiple campuses,
- holding and participating in press conferences,
- networking with existing organizations and organizing around Social Security,
- representing an intergenerational presence in the Social Security privatization debate,
- building and maintaining websites to facilitate information dissemination,
- participating in town hall meetings at the community, state and national levels,
- conducting educational forums such as teach-ins, and
- Building coalitions with other organizations that support Social Security

Thank you and we hope to hear from you!